This is the full journey level in the series. Under the direction of an engineer, incumbents assist in and sometimes conduct field investigations; prepare and check complete design and contract drawings, shop drawings and construction submittals for electrical and electronic work; design difficult electrical and electronic systems to previously established standards and good design practice, with engineering help only for unusual features that have not been standardized; secure information from catalogs; prepare difficult plans, specifications and quantity and cost estimates on a wide variety of electrical and electronic work, such as power and light distribution systems, building, transit station, bridge and tunnel electrical systems, highway lighting and traffic signal systems, electrical systems for motors, fans, pumps and turbines and communication, audio-visual and instrumentation systems; prepare difficult electrical and electronic system layouts and detail drawings; use state-of-the-art technology, i.e., CADD, personal computers, stand-alone interactive systems and automatic lettering devices; incorporate electrical and electronic details into general plans and occasionally will work on drawings and designs other than electrical and electronic; inspect routine manufacturing and installations of electrical and electronic materials and equipment, especially where conformance to standard design requirements are involved; make routine engineering calculations; report the status of general electrical and electronic engineering work and completed results.

All applicants must meet the minimum qualifications for this examination by the final filing date.

Qualifying experience may be combined on a proportionate basis if the requirements stated below include more than one pattern and are distinguished as “Either” I, “or” II, “or” III, etc. For example, candidates possessing qualifying experience amounting to 50% of the required time of Pattern I, and additional experience amounting to 50% of the required time of Pattern II, may be admitted to an examination as meeting 100% of the overall experience requirement.
