

North Coast Funding Area

The North Coast Funding Area includes only one IRWM region, the North Coast IRWM region, and is managed by the North Coast Resource Partnership. The Funding Area covers much of the northwest portion of the state, including all or part of seven counties: Del Norte, Siskiyou, Modoc, Humboldt, Trinity, Mendocino, and Sonoma. The Funding Area includes major watersheds such as those of the Klamath, Trinity, Eel, and Russian Rivers.

Disadvantaged Community Involvement Program

The Disadvantaged Community Involvement Program in the North Coast Funding Area is being carried out by the North Coast Resource Partnership, with assistance from the California Indian Environmental Alliance.

North Coast

The North Coast Resource Partnership (NCRP) works on coordinating and integrating efforts to improve overall watershed health. The governance structure consists of a Policy Review Panel, which is the main governing body, and a Technical Peer Review Committee, which serves as an advisory body to provide scientific and technical expertise. The Policy Review Panel includes three seats for Tribal representatives and the Technical Peer Review Committee also includes three designated Tribal seats. North Coast Tribes select these representatives according to the Tribal Representation Process outlined in the NCRP's Memorandum of Mutual Understandings. The California Indian Environmental Alliance is involved in facilitating coordination among Tribes in the North Coast region.
